"Seashore Cottage" Is an Institution Which

Should Be Duplicated Somewhere Down the Potomac.

In the most charming location imaginable on the brink of the glorious blue ocean, down at North Long Branch is situated a dear old roomy two-story house called the "Senshore Cotage," It is appropriately named, being onlydivided from the wide Atlantic by a neat little green lawn and sufficient beach stretch to accommodate bothers

In front there is another stretch of sward dividing it from the roadway , which is the carriage drive between Loog Branch and the numerous other fashionable summer resorts extending up to Atlantic Highlands.

The cottage, a pure-dazzling white, throws into artistic relief the clustering roses, sweet verbona and lovely honeysuckle which grow in cool and rich luxuriance over the entire front of the house, filling the air and

HAWKINS TURNED ON THE GAS. He Laid Himself Down to Die, But His Wife Defeated His Plans.

When Joseph H. Hawkins returned to his home, No. 1216 Tenth street northwest. about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, he was in a despondent frame of mind, and the neighbors say he had been indulging in too frequent draughts from the flowing undressed, turned off the blaze from the gas fet, then turned the key again and al-lowed a current of diluminating gas to flood the apartment. Then he laid himself down

He was soon in a deep slumber, and would no doubt, have passed into eternity by the gas route, had not Mrs. Hawkins smelled the illuminant, and going to the room turned off the jet, thus saving her life as well as that of her better hair. The only cause that can be assigned for Howkins' rash attempt is that deep, dark and gloomy feeling of despondency which follows in the wake of a season of drinking, just as surely as daylight follows durkness. different classes of the industrial schools-but will not solve the industrial problem.

The best method is to be found in what is known as the manual training school.

This was founded upon the principle that the tool we'k is used to subserve the interests of the school. In the manual training school the brain as well as the hand is exercised, and the winde man is more nearly developed. The pupuls learn that work is for the development of our divine possibilities.

The fluster believed that the manual statements are substantially sufficed to the superior and refined woman, who besides being an and refined woman.

entire front of the house, inting the air and the apartments with a delicious fragrance through the hottest surpmer days. Along the back of the cottage rais two verandas, commanding a superb view of the octain, and here comfortable rockers are to be found in abundance, while hammocks swing from column to column, in which it is luxury to lie and dream and rest out the long drows y afternoon. This charming place was the property of the late Mrs. Fletcher Harper (of Harper Bris), a kind-hearted woman who do naded it for a summer resert not a home, institution or charge system, but a cot-tage), where self-supporting girts and women, with bet limited time to square and insufficient means to pay the charges at everything provided for their comfort and healthful enjoyment at the lowest cost compatible with meeting the bare running expenses of the house from day to day. The most attractive leature of this resort is the absence of anything like dimagiving. The self-respecting, self-supporting woman need only feel she is taking advantage of the leave he with a high three. woman need only feel she is toking advantage of the large hearted philanthropy of a woman who made it possible for her to enjoy two happy, healthful nesting weeks at the senshore by paying the soin of nine dollars for her board and lodging. The sum entitles her to a two weeks' residence, whereas it she can only go for one week five dollars pays all the expenses. The cottage is capable of accommodating fifty vasions, and during the months of July and August, when working women usually, get their vacations, not alone is the house full all the time, but it is found impossible to accommodate half those who apply for board. For this reason no one can stay longer For this reason no one can stay longer than a formight, except, of course, at the very beginning or cod of the season.

Another designful thing about this cottage, and which is undoubtedly the secret of its popularity and success, is the fact that it is altogether non-sectarian, except, of course, those which are tesch-tial to the web-being of any well-kept boarding house, such as regular hours for meals, etc.

Everyone is free to come and go and do everything and everyone is as sweet and There are four charming as possible and the guests all seem imbated with the scattment of "no-tiese of these have thou of children, distrial problem, tourd by what is under the superintendence of a charming found in what is manual training school gives an all around concated and the pupil has an opportunity to keep abreast of every advancing movement of science and its applications. The manual training school also enables the young man to choose better and more competently his life calling.

In conclusion Dr. MacAllister said it was not intended that the manual training school shall supersede or take the place of the word a charity—the thought that the sum you pay, through the philanthrophy of a good woman, is sufficient to cover your expenses, all these friends to cover your expenses, all these friends to cover you expenses, all these of the general curriculum of the public ficient to cover your expenses, all these schools. schools.

Dr. W. T. Harris, commissioner of eduction, referred to the advantage of the manual training school system over the apprentice system. The apprentice system was faulty, in that it compels the summer resorts of the country, and philandrocating the directive thought. This latter is the chief feature of the instruction of the industrial schools. He held to the theory that science and knowledge should re-enforce the hand-laborer. The industrial school resume the oblight of the restriction of the industrial schools required by the seased or in the country, and philanthropists and others who have money to invest worffilly, could not do better than imitate the noble-hearted act of the late. trial school means the abolition of long terms of apprenticeship from seven years to a short course in industrial schools.

Mr. W. N. Hallmann, superintendent of the Indian schools, Department of the Indian, spoke on education as a factor in the settlement of the labor question, and death expectable on the value of the and dwelt especially on the value of the and dwert especially on the value of the education to that end in the kindergarten schools.
